Mills's withdrawal, but the report was that he had desired to retire from some of his numerous directorates.

All the old officers were re-elected for the ensuing year, including Mr. E. H. Harriman as President. The Executive Committee was also re-elected.

Ogden Mills, son of D. O. Mills, who is still a member of the Southern Pacific board, said there was no special significance attached to the resignation of his father. The only reason for the resignation was a desire to lessen as much as possible official duties of this nature. It was said that the holdings of D. O. Mills in the Southern Pacific or the Erie are not heavy, and it was announced that he has withdrawn from the board of the latter company as well.
